Welcome

Whether you are continuing a graduate program or are about to begin one, you will encounter a host of new opportunities during the 2017-18 academic year. My advice is to take them: get to know some of the 18,000+ students from all over the world who make up the U of T graduate community. Attend talks, workshops, and events that get you thinking beyond your own program. Look for ways to find balance between your academic work and your personal life, and enjoy the experience of trying something entirely different.

The Essential Guide for Grad Students can help you do just that. Here you’ll find a tricampus directory that shows you the breadth of services and resources at U of T. At the beginning of the guide, we’ve also outlined what’s available at our home at 63 St. George Street. Please remember that this is your home, too: when you’re next on St. George campus, come relax in the new graduate student lounge, or use the bookable meeting rooms. You can reserve additional space next door at 65 St. George and at Grad Room at 66 Harbord Street.

Grad school is a terrific opportunity to build a community that will support you long after you leave U of T. With the Essential Guide for Grad Students, you are well-equipped to start building. I wish you luck and many rewarding experiences this academic year.

Locke Rowe

Vice-Provost, Graduate Research and Education and Dean, School of Graduate Studies
As you begin this new phase of your academic life, you’ll soon discover that U of T offers a world of opportunity and a chance for you to pursue many diverse interests.

You are part of an academic community in which you will deepen your learning and be able to conduct research with internationally distinguished faculty. You are also part of a larger community that is deeply embedded in the culture of the Greater Toronto Area.

You and your colleagues will find that U of T is a place where you can follow your passions both within and beyond your classes and research, whether they are cultural pursuits, sports, international opportunities or community service.

Look through this book to discover the many services or programs that can help you make your time at U of T fulfilling, academically, professionally and personally. The staff at SGS and in Student Life are here to provide opportunities and support you throughout your academic career.

Welcome to the School of Graduate Studies

63 St. George Street
Office hours: Monday-Friday, 9:30 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.
sgs.utoronto.ca

Located in the newly renovated Macdonald-Mowat building — once the residence of Canada’s first Prime Minister, Sir John A. Macdonald — the School of Graduate Studies at 63 St. George Street is home to various resources and services, including:

• Student Academic Services Office, Room 101: Need an official letter, or information about academic records, registration, or enrolment? Looking for assistance with program management or progress? Visit us in person, or contact us by phone or email (416-978-6614; graduate.information@utoronto.ca).

• The Graduate Awards Office, Room 201: Whether you’re applying for a scholarship, or seeking emergency financial support, bring your questions to us. Our Financial Advisor can also help you with managing educational expenses, budgeting, and planning. Visit us in person, or contact us by phone or email (416-946-0808; graduate.awards@utoronto.ca).

• Doctoral Exams, Master’s Thesis Submission, and Graduation Office, Room 110: Our staff are here to help you coordinate the details of your doctoral final examination and clarify your questions about the electronic submission of your thesis. We can also answer your graduation questions and provide letters indicating the completion of your degree requirements.

• Recruitment and Admissions Office and International Student Support: A resource to resolve admissions issues affecting grad students, we also assist students and grad units alike with joint educational placements. Twice weekly, we host CIE’s International Transition Advisor at 63 St. George Street. Check our advisor’s drop-in office hours at uoft.me/transitionadvisor.
• Wellness Counselling for Grad Students: If you’re interested in counselling, call the Health & Wellness Centre (416-978-8030), and they will set up an assessment for you. You may be recommended to an SGS Wellness Counsellor at 63 St. George Street. Free wellness workshops for grad students are also available twice monthly next door at 65 St. George Street: uoft.me/stayingwell.

• Grad Student Lounge, first floor: Drop by and enjoy a quiet place to read, relax, or get some work done while you’re on St. George campus.

• Meeting rooms: Bookable space is available for grad-related activities, including writing groups and more. Additional space can be booked at 65 George Street and the SGS Grad Room at 66 Harbord Street. Check availability at uoft.me/sgsrooms.
First steps for new students

JOINid, TCard, UTORid and UTmail+

The University of Toronto issues a JOINid to applicants, so that they can access key online services before coming to campus. You should have received an email with your JOINid and instructions for enabling it at uoft.me/enable. If you’ve lost the email or didn’t receive it, please contact admissions.sgs@utoronto.ca.

Before arrival, you can use your JOINid and existing email address for residence applications and to access your student account on ACORN (acorn.utoronto.ca).

Once you pick up your TCard (your U of T student card), your JOINid will become your UTORid, giving you access to further services: ACORN, wireless networks, online library resources, Career Exploration & Education and more. After you activate your UTORid, you’ll be able to set up your U of T email account, where you’ll receive all official email communications from the University.

Proof of citizenship and your offer of admission letter are required in order to receive a TCard. For detailed information about the documentation required to get your TCard, visit tcard.utoronto.ca.

You can get your TCard at the following locations:

St. George campus:
TCard Services, Koffler Student Services Building, 214 College Street, Room 102

Mississauga campus:
CCT Atrium, lower level, Room CC 0160A

Scarborough campus:
1265 Military Trail Bladen Wing, 4th floor
Sep to Apr: Room BV498A
May to Aug: Room BV481

Lost or stolen TCard?

To replace your TCard, visit the nearest TCard office with your student number or UTORid, one piece of valid government-issued photo ID and the $20 replacement fee (debit or credit only). For full details, visit tcard.utoronto.ca/lost-replacement-tcard.
ACORN
ACORN stands for Accessible Campus Online Resource Network (acorn.utoronto.ca) and is the student web interface where you can enrol in courses, check fees and finances, and perform registration tasks such as updating address and contact information. It provides a convenient, personalized and guided experience for using U of T’s online services.

As a new graduate student, you need to get your TCard (U of T student card) and activate your UTmail+ (U of T email address) to set up your ACORN account. You can then login to ACORN using your UTORid and password.

Clearing conditions
Your SGS offer of admission letter outlines important information about your program. It may also include conditions which must be satisfied before you can register. If you’re unsure about how to clear your conditions, contact your graduate unit.
International students: additional information

If you’re an international student and have just arrived on campus, make sure your first stop is at the U of T Centre for International Experience (CIE, cie.utoronto.ca) at 33 St. George Street. Staff and student volunteers at the CIE can help you find temporary and permanent housing, introduce you to fellow students, get you oriented and more. The CIE also offers a number of orientation activities that run from mid-August to mid-September. These include information seminars, workshops, field trips and cultural events.

Status in Canada fee exemption

If you’re an international student and your legal status in Canada changes, you may be eligible for a Status in Canada exemption. Please bring your original documents to SGS Student Academic Services so staff can make the change. If you have questions regarding the kinds of documentation to present, please contact SGS Student Academic Services at graduate.info@utoronto.ca or 416-978-6614.

Changes to legal status must be made by the following deadlines:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Deadline for reassessment of the complete session</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>November 1</td>
<td>for reassessment of the complete fall and winter session</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>February 1</td>
<td>for reassessment of the winter session only</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 29</td>
<td>for reassessment of the complete summer session (only applies to students charged tuition fees for the summer session)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

If you’re unable to provide the required documentation by these deadlines, you must pay the international tuition rate. A change of status is not retroactive to any previous session.
Information for all students

What’s the difference between enrolment and registration? To enrol, you add yourself to courses. To register, you pay your tuition and incidental fees, or make an arrangement to register without payment (fee deferral).

Enrolment

Most graduate units allow you to enrol in courses through ACORN (acorn.utoronto.ca), but some graduate units require you to fill out a form. Consult your home graduate unit for detailed instructions and the SGS sessional dates for course enrolment deadlines: uoft.me/sessional-dates

Registration

To register on time, pay your tuition and incidental fees or make an arrangement to register without payment (fee deferral) by September 15 (if you’re starting in September) or January 12 (if you’re starting in January). Detailed instructions on how to pay tuition fees (including making a fee payment from outside of Canada) are found on the Office of Student Accounts website (www.fees.utoronto.ca). To find out how much you owe, check your invoice on ACORN. For information about service charges, visit: uoft.me/graduate-fees

You may request to register without payment (fee deferral) through ACORN if you have no outstanding fees from a previous session and are the recipient of one of the following which exceeds the minimum payment to register amount on your invoice:

• Ontario Student Assistance Plan (OSAP) loan
• Other provincial government loan
• US government loan
• University funding package (major award, research stipend or teaching stipend)

Applying for graduate awards takes careful planning
Late registration

If you’re registering late, you’ll need to contact Student Academic Services at graduate.info@utoronto.ca to coordinate payment of the $44 late fee and complete your registration.

If you don’t register by the deadline, your enrolment in courses will be cancelled and further enrolment will be blocked. After September 15 (fall/winter sessions) or January 12 (winter session) you must provide proof of payment and register at the SGS Student Academic Services office.

Balance of degree (BoD) fee

All graduate students, both full-time and part-time, must pay a minimum degree fee upon completion of their program. For master’s students, this fee is based on the full-time program length for each graduate master’s program. If, at the end of your program, the total amount of academic fees you paid during the time you were registered is less than this minimum degree fee, you will be required to pay the outstanding balance, known as the Balance of Degree fee. Note that there is no maximum degree fee. Acquaint yourself with your program’s BoD fee as early as possible to avoid any surprises upon graduation, and ask the Student Academic Services office at SGS for more information.

Funding & awards

U of T is committed to the financial support of full-time graduate students in doctoral research-stream programs, with the exception of flex-time and professional doctoral programs. Doctoral-stream graduate programs at the University of Toronto offer a range of financial supports to offset the cost of your graduate education. For students receiving funding, the amount and type of support varies among graduate programs.

Base funding is your graduate unit’s funding commitment. Faculties and graduate programs determine your base funding amount and the number of years of eligibility, so base funding amounts vary across programs. (For example, in the Faculty of Arts and Science, the 2016/17 base funding of different programs ranged from $16,500 to $22,500 per year for eligible students.) The composition of base funding — for example, employment income as teaching or research assistants, research stipends and fellowships — also varies among graduate units. In addition to base funding, all eligible students receive the cost of academic tuition and fees. Most graduate units will send you a detailed breakdown of your funding package at the beginning of each academic year. Check with your graduate unit for full details and consult: uoft.me/gradfunding.

Students in professional master’s, flex-time and professional doctoral programs typically self-fund their educational expenses through a variety of programs including student loans, student lines of credit and employment income. You may also be eligible for a limited number of graduate awards available through your graduate unit and various external agencies.

Remember to plan ahead! Acquaint yourself with the awards competition cycle and plan in advance if you want to apply for an award. Planning ahead is also important in order to:

- take advantage of information sessions
- start thinking about reference letters
- figure out how to access online application systems

Christopher

PhD, Mechanical and Industrial Engineering

The Graduate Awards Office provided me with information about potential funding opportunities and assisted me during and after the application process. They were a helpful liaison to the many awards committees associated with U of T and they even checked in with me personally along the way, which made me feel informed and comfortable with my choices.
Life on campus
Whether you’re just starting a graduate program or are in the midst of one, grad school can seem like an individual challenge. You’ll find a strong sense of community if you get involved in campus life.

Gradlife provides programs exclusively for grad students to help you build skills, get support, find balance, meet other grad students and navigate life at U of T. We can connect you to workshops, social events, campus services and helpful resources that will enrich your experience and enhance your academic achievements. Take advantage of the many opportunities and services offered, and ask for help when you need it – you’ll be glad you did!

Grad Escapes
uoft.me/gradescapes

Sometimes you just need a break. That’s why the Graduate Students’ Union and Student Life created Grad Escapes – a program that offers social, cultural and recreational opportunities to relieve graduate student stress. From art classes to recreational sports, musical theatre to historic tours, there’s something for everyone. So, forget your thesis for a night, try a new experience, and meet fellow students. Bring a partner, a friend or come alone! Student families are welcome.

Lauren
MI, Culture & Technology and Critical Information Policy Studies

I sit on the Gradlife Student Advisory Committee and frequently attend Gradlife events. Engaging with other students through wellness and professional skills programs helps relieve the stress of graduate studies. I’ve especially benefitted from Grad Talks sessions, in which students discuss strategies for coping with specific challenges such as Impostor Syndrome and financial planning. Some of my favourite memories are participating in the Grad Escapes Second City Improv Class and hosting the Grad Escapes Loblaws Cooking Night.
Find balance
Having a successful grad experience means finding a way to balance your studies, health and personal life. If you need a break from your studies, head to a grad lounge, check out the events your grad association is hosting, or look into joining a club. You’ll get a chance to lower your stress levels as you meet new people and grow your network of peers.

Grad Talks
uoft.me/gradtalks
Gradlife and the Grad Room partner to offer learning sessions to help grad students build skills and gain balance. All sessions are held at the Grad Room at 66 Harbord Street and cover topics like communication, personal development, academic support, careers and more.

Get connected

Stay well
Your health and well-being are the foundation of your academic and personal success. The team at the Health & Wellness Centre offers a wide range of services – including confidential student-focused health care, nutrition counselling, immunization and more – to support you in being your best. The School of Graduate Studies offers grad wellness counselling at 63 St. George Street.

See page 51 of the directory for more information.

Laurie
PhD, History
I’ve taken part in a number of workshops offered by the School of Graduate Studies and Health & Wellness on improving mental health and reducing anxiety. These workshops have helped me define and implement strategies that alleviate day-to-day stress, like following a regular routine and pursuing other interests. Taking time to recharge allows me to pace myself during a long project, improving the quality of my work and my overall well-being.
Ask for help early and often
Some days will be better than others, so remember there’s no wrong time to reach out! There are resources for every situation and every level of stress. Through the Graduate Conflict Resolution Centre, Graduate Counselling Services and Grad Minds, you can find resources that are tailored to you and get advice from fellow grad students who have been where you are now. Don’t wait until things have reached a boiling point. Start the conversation now.

See page 50 of the directory for more information.

Get active
No matter how you like to move – from hiking to biking, playing sports, and everything in between – staying active is a wonderful way to lower your stress levels and meet new people. Physical activity helps you focus, too. So take a break from your studies and check out U of T’s athletic facilities, join an intramural team or simply take a walk and breathe deeply. You’ll be glad you did!

See page 44 of the directory for more information.
Be safe on campus
Protect yourself and your community — get informed about campus safety. The WalkSafe program, self-defence workshops and counselling are just some of the services offered by The Campus Police and Community Safety Office. Learn more at www.safety.utoronto.ca.

See 64 / 65 of the directory for more information.

Understand consent
Consent is the informed agreement to take part in intimate activity and it’s necessary every single time. Learn more about your rights and responsibilities at consent.utoronto.ca.

Career prep
Getting ready for a career you love starts now! U of T offers a wide variety of career exploration and education programming for graduate students interested in working within or outside academia. Prepare for your future through courses and workshops offered by the School of Graduate Studies’ Graduate Professional Skills (GPS) program, hone your interview skills and plan your job search through career services on all three campuses and beyond.

See page 37 of the directory for more information.
Your family
If you have family obligations to consider while you study, check out U of T’s wealth of family support resources. From on-campus daycare and family housing to confidential guidance and child and youth athletic programs, you can find the resources you need to care for your family while reaching your academic goals.

See page 42 of the directory for more information.

Academic support & resources
You’ll find lots of specialized support for graduate students at U of T, including free courses on topics such as grant writing, giving presentations, and thesis writing at the Graduate Centre for Academic Communication (GCAC), formerly the Office of English Language and Writing Support (ELWS), dissertation writing groups offered by the Academic Success Centre, and online resources like the SGS Graduate Supervision Guidelines for Students (uoft.me/graduatesupervision) and Best TTC Practices for Doctoral Students (uoft.me/gradTTC).

See page 32 of the directory for more information.

Swapna
MD/PhD, Institute of Medical Science
I’m a peer facilitator for an Interdepartmental Graduate Writing Group at the Grad Room. I’ve learned as much from my group’s participants as I’ve shared with them — the supportive environment fosters discussions during and beyond our weekly sessions about writing challenges and strategies, integrating supervisor feedback, and grad school in general.

Academic Support

Academic Success
214 College Street
(Student Success Centre)
416-978-7970
asc.utoronto.ca

Provides a range of supports to help you reach your academic potential. Meet one-on-one with a learning strategist, access online resources, try a drop-in session or workshop. Popular workshops for grad students include Effective Writing, Avoiding Procrastination & Time Management, Exam Preparation & Anxiety and Reading, Note-Taking & Studying. The Graduate Writing Group at Academic Success provides support from a group of peers who share your experience and can help keep you accountable.

Jennifer
PhD, Pharmaceutical Sciences

Every graduate student I’ve spoken to has gone through a difficult period in his or her academic career for any number of reasons. If you ask for help, seemingly overwhelming obstacles or anxieties that interfere with writing or exams can be overcome relatively easily and painlessly. The University of Toronto has a lot of services and people who are available to help when times are tough. I have been meeting semi-regularly with a learning strategist to help with goal-setting. The one-on-one meetings have helped me declutter my calendar, make realistic goals and get back on track.
I’ve benefitted a lot from the writing workshops and courses offered by the Graduate Centre for Academic Communication (GCAC). Regardless of your academic specialty, scholarly writing requires strong language and authorship skills. A personal writing consultation helped me revise my writing proposal. Thanks to GCAC, I’ve improved in style and clarity.

Alex
MSc, Cell and Systems Biology (UTM)

After I was diagnosed with a learning disability, Accessibility Services provided the technology and support I needed by connecting me with a counsellor who helped me feel comfortable in an academic setting. This resource enhanced my experience as a graduate student, eventually allowing me to help others with non-traditional learning styles by making instructional lab videos for undergraduate biology and chemistry courses.

Sasha

PhD, Cell & Systems Biology (UTM)

Last year, a fellow graduate student and I organized the first Women in Academia luncheon at UTM. The luncheon united female faculty members from various disciplines to share their stories and advice with female graduate students in an effort to overcome gender inequality in academia. Due to the popularity of the event, it’s now going to be part of a regular series! Students’ positive feedback helped me realize that I can effectively encourage my peers to reach their goals.
Sexual and Gender Diversity Office (SGDO)
21 Sussex Avenue, Suite 416-417
416-946-5624
sgdo.utoronto.ca

Natasha
PhD, Social Work/Junior Fellow at the Centre for Criminology and Sociological Studies

The Family Care Office has provided invaluable peer support as I juggle full-time graduate studies with my role as a full-time caregiver to my two young children. The staff members are extremely knowledgeable about practical resources, ranging from how to speak with faculty about accommodations, to where I can find affordable childcare. Connecting with other student-parents helped me realize that the challenges I face are normal. I share strategies that have helped me, like asking for help by calling for folks to collaborate on projects and setting firm boundaries between school, work, and my personal life.

Grad Minds is part of the U of T Graduate Students’ Union (UTGSU) and provides mental health-related resources and services to students, advocates for graduate students’ mental health, and creates partnerships in the community. Offerings include events (arts events, film screenings, talks), the annual Open Minds conference, free yoga and monthly Mental Health at the Grad Room.
The Graduate Counselling Services offered by the School of Graduate Studies (SGS) helped me find work-life balance. Speaking with a counsellor made me realize that taking care of myself is just as important as working in the lab. One-on-one sessions enabled me to develop techniques for managing perfectionism and anxiety surrounding my research and professional presentations. Prioritization helps me figure out what I need to thrive.

Healthy Grad Crew
uoft.me/healthygradcrew

A student-led team providing health education by graduate students for graduate students. Areas of focus include mental health, relationships with supervisors, school-to-work transition and balanced living.

Legal Support, Academic Advocacy & Conflict Resolution

Graduate Conflict Resolution Centre (CRC)
416-978-8920
gradcrc.utoronto.ca

Confidential, knowledgeable advice from trained Grad-to-Grad (G2G) peer advisors to help you navigate and resolve conflicts arising in the course of your studies. G2G do not intervene or advocate – they listen and help you understand your options and available resources. Drop-in hours and one-on-one appointments are available, as well as training and events. No matter is too small to discuss! Visit the website for details.

Michael PhD, Institute of Medical Science

I worked as a G2G peer advisor with the Graduate Conflict Resolution Centre, a novel service that allows graduate students to express their thoughts about any conflicts or issues that arise during their studies and get informal advice and referrals to appropriate resources. The Centre provides a great opportunity to talk with a fellow graduate student who genuinely cares while knowing with full confidence that what is being discussed remains confidential. The 40 hours of training I received as a G2G peer advisor have also enabled me to resolve conflicts in my own graduate studies and personal life.
Downtown Legal Services
655 Spadina Avenue
416-934-4535
downtownlegalservices.ca

A community legal clinic operated by the Faculty of Law at the University of Toronto. Free legal services are provided by law students working under the close supervision of expert staff lawyers.

Personal Development

Centre for Community Partnerships (CCP)
ccp.utoronto.ca

Gain experience through community-engaged learning – an organized service activity that balances community needs with educational benefits. The annual Community-Engaged Learning Seminar for Doctoral Students runs from September to April each year; registration is limited and usually happens in June. Other opportunities of interest to grad students range from single-day events and activities to long-term involvement. Community Action Projects (4-10 months) include tutoring, mentoring and elder companionship, and can be added to your Co-Curricular Record upon completion.
Co-Curricular Record (CCR)
cr.utoronto.ca
A database of opportunities at U of T that helps you get involved beyond the classroom and have your experiences recognized on an official document. Build your skills, grow your network, improve your career prospects and enhance your academic record.

Mentorship Programs
mentorship.utoronto.ca
Whether you’re sharing your own knowledge or learning from someone more senior, mentorship matches you with another student to create a mutually beneficial learning experience. To find a mentor, or to mentor someone else, access the Mentorship Database and explore the many opportunities to connect.

Professional Development

Graduate Centre for Academic Communication (GCAC)
uoft.me/GCAC
Formerly known as English Language & Writing Support (ELWS), GCAC provides graduate students with free, advanced training in academic writing and speaking on topics such as writing literature reviews, grant writing, preparing to publish, and oral presentation skills. A program of the School of Graduate Studies (SGS).

Patricia
MEd, Social Justice Education
Being a peer mentor at Accessibility Services is rewarding because it allows me to learn from a diverse group of new students. Mentorship has also helped me re-focus my learning and realize that in order to succeed, I sometimes need to focus on non-academic activities. As a professional, mentorship skills have been valuable when engaging with new people, strategizing projects, and organizing group activities, events and workshops.
Prepare for your future with GPS! Build critical career skills beyond what you gain in your academic work. Take seminars, workshops, and courses to learn about effective communication, planning and time management, entrepreneurship, ethical practices, teamwork and leadership. Successful completion will be recognized by a transcript notation. A program of the School of Graduate Studies (SGS).

Leadership for Grads

leadership.utoronto.ca

Learn key skills for successful leadership in an academic setting. Workshops in collaborative leadership techniques will help build your skills and knowledge in group facilitation, conflict resolution and more. Participation counts toward the SGS Graduate Professional Skills program.

Swapna

MD/PhD, Institute of Medical Science

The Graduate Professional Skills Program helped me build skills that I don’t necessarily learn in the lab, but that make an impact on how I conduct and share my research — especially in translating research, negotiating funding and fostering collaborations.
Teaching Assistants’ Training Program (TATP)
tatp.utoronto.ca

A peer-training program providing pedagogical support to teaching assistants and grad students. Access the TATP Teaching Toolkit, seminars and workshops, certificate programs, and awards and recognitions. A program of the Centre for Teaching Support and Innovation (CTSI).

3MT® – Three Minute Thesis Competition
uoft.me/3MT

Challenge yourself with this university-wide competition for doctoral students. Participants have three minutes or less to present their research to a panel of non-specialist judges, showcasing their innovative and significant research to a wider audience, across disciplines within the University and to the broader public.

Tingting
PhD, Environmental Science (UTSC)

Through the Teaching Assistants’ Training Program and Graduate Professional Skills Program, I improved my competencies in communication, personal effectiveness and problem solving. As the president of the Graduate Students’ Association at Scarborough (GSAS), I developed my leadership and project management skills. It can be challenging to fulfill all of my roles at the same time, but I can do it with the support of my supervisor, my colleagues and most importantly, team spirit.

A message from the University of Toronto Graduate Students’ Union (UTGSU)

The University of Toronto Graduate Students’ Union (UTGSU) represents over 18,000 full- and part-time graduate students, studying in over 85 departments across the St. George, Mississauga and Scarborough campuses.

The UTGSU advocates for students by acting as your voice on committees within the University of Toronto community, and on all government levels. Past campaigns defined by students’ interests include: defending students’ right to a free public post-secondary education, helping to develop a funding complaint process, and establishing transparency for funding data available in each department.

The democratic structure of the union also ensures strong student representation across departments. Each department is represented by a course union or association, meant to unite students through advocacy and social campaigns and activities. Course unions receive funding from the UTGSU to support these activities.

We also engage you in various community building activities, from our fall and winter Orientations and pub socials to student development workshops. Students are encouraged to get involved in the UTGSU Committees and Caucuses that work on a number of issues identified and defined by the Members, such as increased mental health support of students, and advocating for lower transit fees. For more information, visit utgsu.ca/committees-caucuses.
In addition, the UTGSU is able to provide a variety of year-round services:

- The UTGSU Health and Dental Insurance Plan (HDI)
