Re: Sessional Dates 2019-2020

To assist you in planning for the upcoming academic year, please find attached the Sessional Dates for 2019-2020. These dates have been posted on the SGS website. These sessional dates will also be included in the 2019-2020 SGS Calendar which is produced in late spring.

SGS maintains a 13-week graduate instruction period for the purpose of SGS Sessional Dates and ROSI deadlines for the start and end of classes, as well as course add/drop dates; however, the precise commencement dates of courses are determined by the graduate units. SGS requires that the equivalent of at least 12 weeks of instruction (for a minimum of two hours per week) will normally occur in each term for a 0.5 full course equivalent.

Should a course not fall into the traditional 12 or 13-week period, the graduate unit must inform students of important dates and deadlines (e.g. course add/drop deadlines) in the course syllabus.

If you have any questions about these sessional dates, please do not hesitate to contact Ed Baluyut (ed.baluyut@utoronto.ca).

Thank you.
