

International Visiting Graduate Student Study Abroad Agreement

Preamble

The University of Toronto encourages qualified international graduate students to study at the University in order to foster the exchange of ideas, and to allow students to receive specialized training and participate in research collaboration. Qualified graduate students from abroad can continue their studies towards a degree at their home university by pursuing advanced Master's or Doctoral research at the University of Toronto for a study period of up to 3 sessions, where a session is defined as the three four-month academic sessions in the University's academic year: Fall (September to December), Winter (January to April), and Summer (May to August). Students have the opportunity to study with top research faculty engaged in cutting-edge research and can take advantage of the University's world-class libraries and other research opportunities.

This Study Abroad Agreement sets out a protocol for the recognition of International Visiting Graduate Students (IVGS). The Study Abroad Program exists to facilitate study abroad visits by international graduate students who do not fall under an approved exchange program with the University of Toronto. These students are recognized as legitimate visiting students to the University of Toronto and are registered as full-time graduate students with the School of Graduate Studies. The students also maintain registration at their home university and are expected to return to their home university to complete their Master's or Doctoral program.

All international graduate students who will be visiting the University for less than one month to conduct research towards completion of their thesis only need a letter of invitation from the faculty member who will serve as their host supervisor. In such cases, the visiting student should not apply to the IVGS program and the IVGS agreement form and fees do not apply; such students should arrange for their own health insurance, as they are not eligible for the University Health Insurance Plan (UHIP). Such students should contact the nearest Canadian Embassy, Consulate, or High Commission for advice on what permits might be necessary.

International visiting graduate students who will be studying at the University for more than one month must apply by submitting an IVGS Study Abroad Agreement, accompanied by a letter of invitation from their host supervisor. If approved, upon receipt of a formal offer of admission, visiting students should contact the nearest Canadian Embassy, Consulate, or High Commission for advice on what travel documents might be necessary to enter Canada. When seeking this advice, students should present both their formal offer of admission and the invitation letter from their supervisor, as information on fees and funding may determine what travel documents are required; any students receiving funding from the University of Toronto will need to obtain either a study permit or work permit, according to the advice they receive from Immigration, Refugees, and Citizenship Canada (IRCC).

TERMS OF THE STUDY ABROAD AGREEMENT

1. IVGS students must be in good standing at their home institution and must be registered full-time in a research Master's or Doctoral program.
2. IVGS students will be registered as full-time visiting graduate students at the School of Graduate Studies, University of Toronto.
3. IVGS students will be studying with their supervisor at the University of Toronto on subjects related to their Master's or Doctoral thesis. IVGS students will be enrolled in the course code RST 9999Y Research/Thesis for the duration of their study period at the University. This is a required course for all University of Toronto graduate students while they are preparing their Master's or Doctoral thesis. IVGS students are not permitted to register in any other courses at the university. Upon completion of their study period at the University of Toronto, IVGS students may request an official University of Toronto transcript to send back to their home university.
4. A member of the University of Toronto Graduate Faculty must agree to supervise the student and take responsibility for the student for the duration of the study period. It is recognized that it is the responsibility of the student to identify a supervisor at the University of Toronto.
5. The University of Toronto supervisor must write a Letter of Invitation signed by the following five parties:
  - a. the IVGS student
  - b. the student's supervisor at his/her home university
  - c. the home university supervisor's chair or centre head
  - d. the member of the University of Toronto Graduate Faculty who agrees to supervise the visiting student (the host supervisor)
  - e. the chair or centre head of the graduate unit in which the host supervisor holds his or her graduate appointment

This agreement will deal with issues such as intellectual property, access to equipment and supplies, research ethics, and space (see sample Letter of Invitation included below).

6. IVGS students assume responsibilities to the University of Toronto and must abide by all University of Toronto's policies, regulations, rules and procedures including but not limited to the U of T Code of Behaviour on Academic Matters, Code of Student Conduct, Policy on Ethical Conduct in Research, Intellectual Property Guidelines and the Inventions Policy.
7. The IVGS fees provide students with access to university services (e.g. library, e-mail access, computing) and to student services such as recreation facilities, and the Centre for International Experience. IVGS students may apply for residence (if space is available).
8. Admission to the IVGS Study Abroad Program is at the complete discretion of the University of Toronto, School of Graduate Studies and does not guarantee admission into a graduate degree program at the University of Toronto. Any student who wishes to apply to a graduate degree program at the University of Toronto must do so following the regular application process in competition with all other applicants. No transfer credit will normally be given for coursework completed as an IVGS student.
9. The IVGS student's registration may be terminated at any time with written notice by the University of Toronto, School of Graduate Studies.

PROCESS AND ADMINISTRATION

1. A visiting student's study abroad visit must be mutually agreed upon by the student's supervisor (or equivalent) at the home university, the home university supervisor's chair or centre head, the proposed supervisor at the University of Toronto, and the chair or centre head of the University of Toronto supervisor's graduate unit.
2. The student's supervisor at the University of Toronto will submit the following documents to his/her Graduate Administrator:
  - a. IVGS Agreement Form: A completed IVGS Form signed by all appropriate signatories as requested on the form.
  - b. Letter of Invitation: The Letter of Invitation must be co-signed by the five parties confirming supervisory arrangements and all aspects of the visit (including intellectual property, travel costs, study stipend (if any), access to equipment and supplies, research ethics, and space). (See sample Letter of Invitation below.)
3. The completed IVGS Form with the required five signatures, the Letter of Invitation, and other relevant documentation must be forwarded for approval to the School of Graduate Studies, University of Toronto by the graduate administrator in the host supervisor's graduate unit. If approved, the School of Graduate Studies will issue the visiting student an Offer of Admission under the IVGS Study Abroad Program with copies to the Graduate Administrator and supervisor at the University of Toronto.

Normally the start and finish date of the study abroad program will coincide with the start and end of a session. If a mid-session study period is requested, the student must pay non-academic incidental fees and UHIP fees for each session of registration. In signing this agreement, all parties acknowledge that the student is liable for the full fees of any session in which they are registered, even if they attend for only part of that session.

Note: Applications should be received by the School of Graduate Studies no later than two months in advance of the start of a study period, with longer advance notice strongly recommended. Student and supervisor should consult the IRCC website for information on processing times for study permit applications

4. IVGS students are not charged tuition fees at the University of Toronto (but may be charged fees at their home institution). Other fees are required. IVGS students' fees will be posted at <https://www.acorn.utoronto.ca>. Students should pay fees on arrival, either through a Canadian bank, or by credit card on ACORN. Fees include:
  - a. The full-time compulsory non-academic student incidental fees ($807.04 per session for the 2020-21 academic year. The non-academic incidental fees include Athletics, Hart House, Health Services, Student Services fees and various campus-wide and divisional student societies. Students are charged the full sessional fees of every session in which they are registered, even if they are only present for part of the session.
  - b. The University Health Insurance Plan (UHIP) fees ($60 CDN per month in 2020-2021). This mandatory health plan ensures that all international students have basic health care coverage while studying in Ontario. International students are required to pay for UHIP coverage regardless of any other coverage they may have. The student should submit the form as soon as possible on arrival. Completed forms must be submitted to the UHIP Office at the Centre for International Experience (33 Saint George Street). It is important to note that UHIP does not include travel coverage. Students are encouraged to seek private travel insurance if they plan to travel out of province.
